The fire made a substantial run in the afternoon. The fire behavior picked up rapidly and became plume dominated. A 3/4 mile wide fire vortex was observed burning out a one mile long drainage in a matter of minutes ripping full trees from the ground roots and all and lifting them hundreds of feet into the air.
The structure protection group with the aid of Tok Area initial attack resources plumbed and prepped structures along the Alaska Highway.
Later in the evening the column collapse caused visibility along the highway to diminish. DOT signs were put in place.
Gannett Glacier T2IA used helicopters with buckets to support burnout operations of indirect control line in the northwest corner of the fire while Upper Tanana #2 continued to mop-up.
