Narrative: The fire was on the ridge north of Seward Creek burning in alpine tundra and brush. The inversion and thick smoke obscured visibility west of there. The south perimeter was on the ridge between Teddy's Fork and American Creek, burning in brush and scattered black spruce. Ther was 1 to 3 ft. flame lengths with isolated single tree torching. The Tazlina crew was bumped over to H-130 for direct attack in the saddle south of H-130 where they cut saw line and secured the edge with the assistance of bucket work from helicopter 4WW. The crew returned to the Boundary fire and 4WW was released to the lower ^48.
