Much of the perimeter remains sheltered in both hardwoods and spruce understory. Expect limited growth until fire weather indices increase. Creeping and smoldering throughout the fire area today with isolated pockets of slash burning interior. Single tree torching was also observed. Mop-up remains difficult due to extremely dry deep duff layers. Crews continued to secure the northern most section of the fire to protect Whitestone as well as other values at risk to the north. The fire received intermittent precip.

Partly sunny skies allowed for an aerial reconnaissance flight of the fire yesterday and smoldering was observed on portions of the southeastern fireline. Having completed containment objectives, fire personnel in Division Z were removed from the line. A squad of Gannett Glacier worked to line and secure a NFWS repeater and to construct a medium helispot for access in case another drying trend occurs. All structure protection equipment was pulled and backhauled from along the Alaska Highway. Upper Tanana #1 demobed. All remaining crews will demob on Tuesday will full demobed planned for the end of the week.

Several smokes were observed, primarily in the interior. Natural barriers, the retardant line on the east side of the fire and wet weather are currently inhibiting further growth and activity. Site assessments by boat along the shores of Little Lake Louise, Louise, Susitna and Tyone Lakes are completed and the fire was demobed. During the next shift site assessments along the road system will continue.
