	Narrative: Aggressive mop up around structures within the burnout was conducted yesterday afternoon and evening in the vicinity of Central. Line resources, constructing and reinforcing containment and contingency lines to protect structures and other improvements, were supported by helicopter bucket work. Most fires in the complex experienced gusts in excess of 20 mph, resulting in wide spread torching and numerous crown runs. A major run across Quartz Creek threatened structures, and spotted across the Steese Highway east of Central. Steve Frye's Northern Rockies Type 1 IMT transitioned with Mike Morcom's Blue Mountain Type 2 IMT throughout the operational period today, for a transfer of command at 0800 on 8/14/04.

Narrative: Major runs occurred and winds hampered firefighter's efforts to secure the area around the Wolf Lake and the establishment of a safe anchor point. The plan is to continue making attempts to establish a safe anchor point at Wolf lake and protect allotments and structures around the lake. An ASM, airtanker, and helicopters worked the fire. A Red Flag Warning and poor humidity recovery slowed containment efforts. One-hundred thirty-six personnel remain in this fire.
